To whom it may concern,

Forgive me for not offering a solution of my own, but I would like to see updated food truck regulations that will strike a better balance for the trucks and the brick-and-mortar restaurants. The recent WaPo story that the proposed regs would prevent trucks from operating in 8 of the 10 most popular spots, including my most frequented outside of Union Station, concerns me and I hope that the City Council can help find a better balance.

Kindest regards,

Travis Cooke
